SCHEDULE 7

DISCLOSURE – CONTINUOUS DISCLOSURE

1. INTRODUCTION

The continuous disclosure provisions of the Corporations Act, the Norwegian Securities Trading Act and the listing rules of the NSX and the Continuing Obligations of Oslo Børs (as defined below) the ("Listing Rules") mean that criminal and civil liabilities could be imposed on African Petroleum Corporation Limited (Company) and/or its officers if information is not released immediately after it becomes known.

In the absence of the Continuous Disclosure Officer the Company's Chairman or the Company Secretary should be contacted.

Continuous Disclosure Officer

The Continuous Disclosure Officer will process promptly all Notification Forms received and complete Annexure B to this Schedule 7 in consultation with appropriate personnel. When required, an announcement to the Exchange will be prepared and released.

6. THE COMPANY'S OBLIGATIONS

Listing Rules and statutory law - Disclosure

Australian regulation

The NSX Listing Rules requires "immediate" or "without delay" disclosure of any information concerning the Company or its associated entities which the Company or its associated entities is or becomes aware and which a reasonable person would expect to have a "material effect" on the price or value of securities in the Company. Section 674 of the Corporations Act reinforces the Listing Rules in relation to continuous disclosure.

The requirement to disclose this information does not apply if, and only if, each of the following conditions is and remains satisfied:

- (a) a reasonable person would not expect the information to be disclosed; the information is confidential and the Exchange has not formed the view that the information has ceased to be confidential; and
- (b) one or more of the following conditions apply:
 - (i) it would be a breach of a law to disclose the information;
 - (ii) the information concerns an incomplete proposal or negotiation (for example, a negotiation to enter into a new contract);
 - (iii) the information comprises matters of supposition or is insufficiently definite to warrant disclosure;
 - (iv) the information is generated for the internal management purposes of the Company; or
 - (v) the information is a trade secret.

Norwegian regulation

According to the Norwegian Securities Trading Act section 5-2, and the provisions set out in Oslo Børs' Continuing Obligations for stock exchange listed companies (the "Continuing Obligations"), a company listed on Oslo Axess has an ongoing obligation to, without delay and on its own initiative, publicly disclose inside information which concerns the issuer directly.

"Inside Information" is defined in the Norwegian Securities Trading Act section 3-2 as:

"any information of a precise nature relating to financial instruments, the issuers thereof or other circumstances which has not been made public and is not commonly known in the market and which is likely to have a significant effect on the price of those financial instruments or of related financial instruments".

"Information of a precise nature" means information which indicates circumstances that exist or may reasonably be expected to come into existence or an event that has occurred or may reasonably be expected to occur and which is specific enough to enable a conclusion to be drawn as to the possible effect of those circumstances or that event on the price of the financial instruments or related financial instruments".

"Information likely to have a significant effect on the price of financial instruments or of related financial instruments" means information of the kind which a reasonable investor would be likely to use as part of the basis of his investment decision".

Under the Norwegian Securities Trading act section 5-3 the Company may delay the public disclosure of inside information such as not to prejudice its legitimate interests, provided that such omission does not mislead the public and provided that the Company ensures the confidentiality. The Company is obliged to immediately notify Oslo Børs of the existence of the inside information and the reason for the delay.

Legitimate interests may typically relate to:

- (i) Negotiations in course, or related elements, where the outcome or normal pattern of those negotiations would be likely to be affected by public disclosure. In particular, in the event that the financial viability of the Company is in grave and imminent danger, although not within the scope of the applicable insolvency law, public disclosure of information may be delayed for a limited period where such a public disclosure would seriously jeopardise the interest of existing and potential shareholders by undermining the conclusion of specific negotiations designed to ensure the long-term financial recovery of the Company.
- (ii) Decisions taken or contracts made which need the approval of another body of the Company in order to become effective due to the organisation of the Company, provided that public disclosure of the pending decision or contract together with the simultaneous announcement that final approval is still pending would jeopardise the correct assessment of the information by the public.

The existence of legitimate interests in postponing public disclosure shall be evaluated by the Company on a case by case basis. The Continuous Disclosure Officer is responsible for evaluating whether inside information that directly concerns the Company exists and whether the conditions for postponing public disclosure have been satisfied. In the event that the Company is required to disclose the information on the NSX, the Company will not be able to utilize the possibility to delay disclosure as set out in the Norwegian Securities Trading act section 5-3.

Should the Company have reason to believe that inside information directly concerning the Company is known to, or about to become known to, unauthorised parties, the Company shall without delay and on his own initiative publicly disclose the information in accordance with section 5-12 of the Norwegian Securities Trading Act.

7. HOW DOES THE COMPANY BECOME AWARE OF INFORMATION?

The Company will be deemed to have become aware of information where a director, executive officer or other member of the key management has, or ought reasonably to have, come into possession of the information in the course of the performance of his/her duties as a director, executive officer or member of key management of the Company.

As the NSX Listing Rules fix the Company with the knowledge of a director or executive officer, and the Norwegian Securities Trading Act and Oslo Børs' Continuing Obligations require the Company to implement routines to ensure that inside information comes to the knowledge of the persons in charge of reporting to Oslo Børs, it is very important to follow the notification procedures set out later in this Guide. Because there is an obligation to disclose information, a director, executive officer or other member of key management "ought reasonably" to have come into possession of, the notification procedures in this Guide are designed to ensure that all potentially relevant information regarding the Company is brought to the attention of the Company.

An executive officer is a person concerned in, or taking part in, the management of the Company.

8. MATERIALITY

The Company must disclose information if a reasonable person would expect that information to have a significant effect on the price or value of the securities of the Company. A reasonable person is taken to expect information to have such an effect if the information would, or would be likely to, influence persons who commonly invest in securities in deciding whether or not to subscribe for, buy or sell, those securities.

Under Australian law, neither the Listing Rules nor the Corporations Act define when information will be taken to have such an effect. In practice, usually a monetary test is adopted using thresholds from the accounting standards relevant to preparation of financial statements. However, other concepts of materiality are also adopted in addition to a monetary threshold. For example:

- (a) whether a matter will significantly damage the Company's image or reputation;
- (b) whether a matter will significantly affect the Company's ability to carry on business in the ordinary course; and
- (c) whether the matter involves a breach of any law or regulation.

Information may include information necessary to prevent or correct a false market.

Under Norwegian law, the "Reasonable Investor Test" stipulates that relevant information is information of the kind which a reasonable investor would be likely to use as part of the basis of his investment decision.

9. THE TYPE OF INFORMATION THAT NEEDS TO BE DISCLOSED

It is not possible to exhaustively list the information, which must be disclosed. The following examples are provided to give you some idea about information that might require disclosure.

If there is any doubt about the importance of information which comes to light, there should be immediate notification to the Chairman of the Company so that advice can be given and a formal decision can be made as to whether or not the information is required to be disclosed. In the Chairman's absence the Continuous Disclosure Officer or the Company Secretary should be contacted.

Examples of information that might need to be disclosed include the following:

- (a) a new contract that the Company had entered into or a variation to an existing contract; or
- (b) any event which could affect the Company's assets, earnings or profitability such as:
 - (i) litigation being commenced by or against the Company (e.g. because of an alleged breach of contract etc.);
 - (ii) industrial action being threatened or commenced;
 - (iii) significant unbudgeted capital expenditure commitments arising;
 - (iv) proposed changes in the nature of the business of the Company;
 - (v) a material change in debt, liquidity or cash flow; or
 - (vi) a significant new development proposal ie, new product or technology; or
- (c) any other information regarding the Company that may have a significant effect on the share price or the value of shares and/or other securities of the Company such as:
 - (i) the Company considering a major acquisition or disposal of assets;
 - (ii) the Company's sales and profit results noticeably exceeding (or falling short of) the market's expectations;
 - (iii) proposed changes to the Board or senior management;
 - (iv) proposed changes to the capital structure of the Company;

- (v) a matter that may significantly damage the Company's image or reputation;
- (vi) situations in which the Company plans to issue new shares;
- (vii) where the management of the Company has been informed that offers may be made for the Company;
- (viii) an agreement or option to acquire an interest in a mining tenement, or to enter into a joint venture or farm-in or farm-out arrangement in relation to a mining tenement; or significant discoveries, exploration results, or changes in reserve/resource estimates from mining tenements in which the Company has an interest. For other examples refer to the checklist in the Schedule. These are only examples of circumstances in which inside information may be present; the list is not exhaustive. In principle, any type of information can be inside information if the information is likely to have a significant effect on the price of the financial instrument, as described above, and the information is not publicly available or commonly known in the market.

10. OBLIGATIONS TO NOTIFY THE CEO AND/OR THE CHAIRMAN

Where any information comes to light about the Company which may need to be released, the information is required to immediately be brought to the attention of the Continuous Disclosure Officer (or delegate) and/or the Chairman with all possible expediency.

The procedure for notification is set out in the Schedule. The Schedule also contains a checklist for the Company directors, executive officers, employees and agents designed to assist in determining whether information may need to be released.

Until a decision as to whether or not to disclose information has been made, the Company directors, officers, employees and agents must treat the information as strictly confidential.

11. DECISION TO DISCLOSE INFORMATION

The disclosure shall simultaneously be made on www.nsx.com.au and www.newsweb.no. The notice shall clearly state that the information is subject to a duty of disclosure pursuant to section 5-12 of the Norwegian Securities Trading Act or pursuant to the Continuing Obligations of Oslo Børs.

If the Company uses a different news provider than Newsweb, such information must be simultaneously transmitted electronically to Oslo Børs.

For disclosure during the opening hours of Oslo Børs of particularly price-sensitive events, including take-over bids, profit warnings and other specific matters which must be assumed to have a significant effect on the share price, the Continuous Disclosure Officer is required to give prior notice to Oslo Børs.

12. DECISION TO POSTPONE DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION

If a decision is made to postpone disclosure of information, the reasons for withholding such information must be documented at the time the decision is made, signed by Continuous Disclosure Officer (or delegate) and/or the Chairman, dated and retained. The Company shall immediately notify Oslo Børs of the decision and of the reasons for postponing such disclosure. The Company shall immediately prepare a list of persons with access to the information in accordance with the instructions in section 19 below.

13. CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

In determining whether any information that comes to light about the Company needs to be released, a determination may need to be made as to whether the information is confidential. If a determination is made that the information is confidential, then the Continuous Disclosure Officer will ensure that anyone who has a copy of the information is aware that it is confidential. If a disclosure is required in respect of any matters subject to confidentiality, and the Company has no legitimate reasons to delay disclosure of the inside information, then, to the extent possible, the Continuing Obligations Committee shall liaise with the counterparty of the confidential information and inform them that the Company under applicable legislation is required to disclose to the market the confidential information.

14. RELATIONSHIP WITH MEDIA AND PUBLIC

The Company must disclose information needed to prevent a false market. Accordingly it may be necessary for the Company to correct a rumour or to respond to speculation, including media speculation, regarding the Company.

Relevant information must be provided to the Exchange in accordance with the Listing Rules and the Norwegian Securities Trading Act and released to the market before it is provided to the media (even on an embargoed basis).

Care must be taken not to make comments to the media or others which could result in rumours or speculation about the Company. Staff must comply with the media relations policy of the Company. That policy limits media contact to the Continuous Disclosure Officer. Other officers and executives may only confer with the media in relation to a particular matter concerning the Company if they have obtained the prior express approval of the Continuous Disclosure Officer or his delegate for the purpose of giving such approval.

15. EMPLOYMENT AND MONITORING OF COMPLIANCE

To promote an understanding of the continuous disclosure obligations imposed the Company by the Corporations Act, the Norwegian Securities Trading Act and the Listing Rules, a copy of this guide will be provided to all directors, executive officers, employees (present or future) and agents of the Company who may from time to time be in the possession of undisclosed information that may have a significant effect on the price or value of the Company's securities.

All recipients are required to acknowledge receipt by completing the form at Appendix One.

The Continuous Disclosure Officer of the Company will ensure that the continuous disclosure obligations of the Company are drawn to the attention of officers, employees or agents of the Company, by written memorandum, at least once in every 12 month period.

At least once in every 12 month period, the Audit and Risk committee will review the Company's compliance with this memorandum. From time to time, and if considered necessary, the board of the Company may update this memorandum (and distribute an updated copy to all directors, officers, employees and relevant agents of the Company) to reflect changes in the Company's business operations and changes in the Corporations Act, the Norwegian Securities Trading Act and the Listing Rules.

The induction procedures for new staff must require that a copy of this Guide be provided to each new employee. It is the responsibility of the Continuous Disclosure Officer of the Company to ensure that all staff and consultants have received this Guide and understand its requirements.

16. SHARE TRADING BY OFFICERS

Any director, officer or employee of the Company proposing to trade in the Company's shares must comply with the Share Dealing Code.

17. REPORTING AND CORRECTING MISTAKEN NON-DISCLOSURE

Any director, officer or employee of the Company who becomes aware that relevant information has not been notified and disclosed in accordance with the preceding provisions, should immediately telephone the Continuous Disclosure Officer of the Company so that appropriate action can be taken. It is far better to correct mistaken non-disclosure and lodge an announcement belatedly than to continue to ignore the omission and fail to comply with the Listing Rules in relation to continuous disclosure.

18. LIST OF PRIMARY INSIDERS FOR OSLO BØRS

18.1 Primary Insiders

Pursuant to the Norwegian Securities Trading Act, "Primary Insider" shall be understood as:

The Continuous Disclosure Officer shall ensure that a list is prepared immediately when inside information is passed on to external recipients (i.e. to legal entities and/or persons outside the Company).

Inside information communicated externally

However, under all circumstances, the Company bears the legal responsibility for ensuring that a correct list is kept of external persons who have received inside information, even if the practical responsibility for keeping the list is delegated to external parties.

If the Continuous Disclosure Officer decides to delegate to the external party the responsibility for keeping the list, the Continuous Disclosure Officer shall provide the external party with written instructions and ensure that the external recipient of inside information is familiar with the requirements of correct list-keeping. The Continuous Disclosure Officer shall also give instructions that the updated list is to be sent to the Company immediately on request.

If access to inside information is given to a legal entity, the list shall include all Directors, employees, consultants, representatives, assistants etc who are given access to the inside information.

If the Company on a regular basis provides inside information to certain external parties such as an information distributor, the Continuous Disclosure Officer may instruct the information distributor to maintain the list on behalf of the Company and to limit the number of persons given access to the information to a minimum. The regular contact persons in the external party may receive information of the consequences of receiving inside information once, and not for each time information is received. However the Continuous Disclosure Officer must inform or otherwise make clear on each occasion that the external party receives inside information.

19.4 Duty to ensure that recipients of inside information are aware of the duties and responsibilities pursuant to applicable Norwegian law

The Continuous Disclosure Officer shall ensure that persons gaining access to inside information are aware of the duties and responsibilities this involves and of the possible penal sanctions for misuse or unlawful distribution of such information. This applies both to communication of inside information within the Company and communication of inside information to external parties.

The Continuous Disclosure Officer shall ensure that the Company can at all times document to the Norwegian Financial Supervisory Authority that the persons who have been given access to inside information are aware of the duties and responsibilities related thereto.

Internal - instructions for Directors, employees, consultants etc

The Continuous Disclosure Officer shall ensure that all Directors, employees, consultants to and representatives of the Company and companies in the Group have received this Guide.

considered to have engaged in serious misconduct which may result in the termination of their engagement by the Company.

SCHEDULE 9

GUIDELINES - INSIDE INFORMATION, PRIMARY INSIDERS AND MARKET ABUSE

1. INTRODUCTION

These guidelines set out the policy on the sale and purchase of securities in African Petroleum Corporation Limited (Company) by its Directors and employees.

Directors of the Company (Directors) and employees are encouraged to be long-term holders of the Company's securities. However, it is important that care is taken in the timing of any trading of such securities. The purpose of these guidelines is to assist Directors and employees to avoid conduct known as 'insider trading'. In some respects, the Company's policy extends beyond the strict requirements of the Corporations Act.

Directors and employees of the Company are further subject to certain duties and responsibilities as set out in the Norwegian Securities Trading Act and Oslo Børs' Continuing Obligations. Accordingly, these guidelines set out certain requirements specifically applicable to persons who, pursuant to the definition set out in subsection 7.1 below, qualify as primary insiders of the Company, as well as certain requirements generally applicable to all Directors and employees of the Company.

Primary Insiders of the Company are specifically required to:

- properly investigate whether there exists any inside information in relation to the securities of the Company prior to trading in such securities, see subsection 7.2 below;
- notify Oslo Børs of any trading in Company securities, see subsection 7.3 below; and
- submit a list of close associates to Oslo Børs and to notify Oslo Børs of any trading in Company securities by its close associates, see subsection 7.4 below.

All Directors and employees are required to:

- observe a duty of confidentiality when in possession of inside information, see section 8 below;
- show due care when handling inside information, see section 9 below; and
- observe the prohibition against market manipulation, see section 10 below.

2. WHAT TYPES OF TRANSACTIONS ARE COVERED BY THIS POLICY?

This policy applies to the trading of any securities of the Company and its subsidiaries on issue from time to time. "Securities" means all securities issued by the Company and rights related to securities issued by the Company, and shall include but not be limited to shares, depository receipts (ADRs), subscription rights, convertible bonds, bonds, warrants, options and futures/forward contracts. "Trading" means the sale, purchase, exchange and subscription of securities.

3. WHAT IS INSIDER TRADING?

3.1 Prohibition

Insider trading is a criminal offence. It may also result in civil liability. In broad terms, a person will be guilty of insider trading if:

- (a) that person possesses "inside information" as defined in Schedule 7);
- (b) and that person, directly or indirectly:
 - (i) trades securities in the Company; or
 - (ii) procures someone else to trade securities in the Company; or
 - (iii) invites, advises or recommends others to trade in securities of the Company; or
 - (iv) passes on that information to (i) unauthorised parties or (ii) a third party where that person knows, or ought reasonably to know, that the third party would be likely to trade the securities or procure someone else to trade the securities of the Company.

This section is not necessarily complete regarding the insider's duties and responsibilities. Each person being in possession of inside information is obliged to keep him- or herself updated as to the legislative framework concerning Inside Information from time to time.

3.2 Examples

To illustrate the prohibition described above, the following are possible examples of price sensitive information which, if made available to the market, may be likely to affect significantly the price of the Company's securities:

- (a) a new contract that the Company has entered into or a variation to an existing contract; or
- (b) any event which could affect the Company's assets, earnings or profitability such as:

- (i) litigation being commenced by or against the Company (e.g. because of an alleged breach of contract etc.);
 - (ii) industrial action being threatened or commenced;
 - (iii) significant unbudgeted capital expenditure commitments arising;
 - (iv) proposed changes in the nature of the business of the Company;
 - (v) a material change in debt, liquidity or cash flow; or
 - (vi) a significant new development proposal ie, new product or technology; or
- (c) any other information regarding the Company that may have a significant effect on the share price or the value of shares and/or other securities of the Company such as:
- (i) the Company considering a major acquisition or disposal of assets;
 - (ii) the Company's sales and profit results noticeably exceeding (or falling short of) the market's expectations;
 - (iii) proposed changes to the Board or senior management;
 - (iv) proposed changes to the capital structure of the Company;
 - (v) a matter that may significantly damage the Company's image or reputation;
 - (ix) situations in which the Company plans to issue new shares;
 - (x) where the management of the Company has been informed that offers may be made for the Company;
 - (xi) an agreement or option to acquire an interest in a mining tenement, or to enter into a joint venture or farm-in or farm-out arrangement in relation to a mining tenement; or
 - (xii) significant discoveries, exploration results, or changes in reserve/resource estimates from mining tenements in which the Company has an interest.

These are only examples of circumstances in which inside information may be present; the list is not exhaustive. In principle, any kind of information can be inside information if the information is likely to have a significant effect on the price of the financial instrument and the information is not publicly available or commonly known in the market.

3.3 Dealing through third parties

A person does not need to be a Director or employee of the Company to be guilty of insider trading in relation to securities in the Company. The prohibition extends to any dealings, directly or indirectly, by Directors and employees either by own account or for third party account. Reference is also made to section 7.4 below with respect to primary insiders' close associates.

3.4 Information however obtained

It does not matter how or where the person obtains the information – it does not have to be obtained from the Company to constitute inside information.

3.5 Prohibition against giving advice

It is prohibited to give advice about trading in securities for any person who possesses inside information. The prohibition applies to written, verbal or any other kind of advice to trade or refrain from trade, and applies even if the inside information is not disclosed. Further, the prohibition may be deemed contravened even if the recipient does not follow the advice.

4. GUIDELINES FOR TRADING IN THE COMPANY'S SECURITIES

4.1 General rule

The time for any Director or employee to trade Company securities is not permitted during the following blackout periods (Blackout Periods):

- (a) within the period of 1 month prior to the release of annual or half yearly results; and
- (b) there is in existence price sensitive information that has not been disclosed because of an NSX Listing Rule exception.

Directors and employees should wait at least 1 day after the relevant release before dealing in securities so that the market has time to absorb the information.

The Company may at its discretion vary this rule in relation to a particular period by general announcement to all employees either before or during the period.

However, if a Director or employee of the Company is in possession of price sensitive information which is not generally available to the market, then he or she must not deal in the Company's securities at any time.

4.2 No short-term trading in the Company's securities

Directors and employees should never engage in short-term trading of the Company's securities except for the exercise of options where the shares will be sold shortly thereafter.

4.3 Securities in other companies

Trading securities of other companies with which the Company may be dealing is prohibited where an individual possesses information which is not generally available to the market and is 'price sensitive'. For example, where an individual is aware that the Company is about to sign a major agreement with another company, they should not trade securities in either the Company or the other company.

4.4 Misuse of inside information

Pursuant to the Norwegian Securities Trading Act, trading in securities when in possession of inside information is only prohibited where such trading constitutes a misuse of inside information. For instance, the normal exercise upon expiry of options and forward contracts which have been entered into prior to coming into possession of inside information is not prohibited under Norwegian law. The same applies to the normal exercise of convertible bonds.

Under Norwegian law, the question as to what constitutes a misuse of inside information is subject to the discretion of the courts and is established on a case to case basis. As a consequence, it is difficult to draw clear boundaries between misuse and permitted conduct. Under Norwegian law, the following will normally not be regarded as misuse of inside information:

- to the extent two or more persons are cooperating e.g. on an acquisition, and one is aware that the persons they are cooperating with are also trading shares and that public disclosure of such information would contribute to pushing up the price of the shares
- to the extent the person in question who is in possession of inside information fully informs the counterparty (provided that the rules on confidentiality do not prevent such disclosure)
- to the extent an investor trades in the opposite direction of the direction in which the inside information is likely to influence the price of the security
- knowledge of one's own transaction decisions that are carried out on one's own account, even if the transaction would have a significant effect on the price of the security
- An employer's issuance of employee options will normally not entail misuse of inside information, even if the issuance takes place at the same time as inside information is present at the issuer and/or among its employees. This assumes that the employee options are established as direct agreements between the issuer and its employees on the right to subscribe/purchase shares in the issuer.

5. APPROVAL AND NOTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

5.1 Relationship to the requirements set out in Section 7 to 10

Compliance with the rules set out in this section 5 shall not have the effect of releasing Primary Insiders of the Company from such duties, responsibilities and prohibitions as, in accordance with the Norwegian Securities Trading Act, are set out in section 7 to 10 below.

5.2 Approval Requirements – Primary Insiders

- (a) Any Primary Insider wishing to trade or exercise rights in relation to the Company's securities must obtain the prior approval of the Chairman before doing so; or
- (b) If the Chairman wishes to trade or exercise rights in relation to the Company's securities the Chairman must obtain the prior approval of the Board before doing so.

5.3 Approval Requirements –Employees

Any employees or contractors of the Company wishing to trade or exercise rights in relation to the Company's securities must obtain the prior written approval of the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer or Chairman before doing so.

5.4 Notification

Any Primary Insider or employee who (for own or third party account) trades or exercises rights in relation to Company securities must notify the Company Secretary of the details of the transaction immediately after the transaction having occurred. This notification obligation operates at all times but does not apply to acquisitions of shares or options by employees made under employee share or option schemes, nor does it apply to the acquisition of shares as a result of the exercise of options under an employee option scheme. As mentioned in subsection 5.1 above, notification to the Company shall not release the Primary Insider from such duties, responsibilities and prohibitions as are set out in section 7 to 10 below, including, inter alia, the duty to undertake a proper investigation as to the existence of inside information prior to trading or exercising rights in relation to the securities of the Company.

5.5 Approvals to trade securities

All requests to trade securities must include the intended volume of securities to be purchased or sold and an estimated time frame for the sale or purchase.

5.6 Primary Insiders' sales of securities

Primary Insiders need to be mindful of the market perception associated with any sale of Company securities and possibly the ability of the market to absorb the volume of shares being sold. With this in mind, the management of the sale of any significant volume of Company securities (i.e. a volume that would represent a volume in excess of 10% of the total securities held by the seller prior to the sale, or a volume to be sold that would be in excess of 10% of the average daily traded volume of the shares of the Company on the NSX or Oslo Axess for the preceding 20 trading days) by a Primary Insider needs to be discussed with the board and the Company's legal and financial advisers prior to the execution of any sale. These discussions need to be documented in the form of a file note, to be retained by the Company Secretary.

5.7 Exemption from Blackout Period restriction due to exceptional circumstance

A Director, employee or contractor who is not in possession of inside information in relation to the Company, may be given prior written clearance by the Chief Executive Officer Chief Financial Officer or Chairman (or in the case of a Director the Chairman or Chief Financial Officer, or in the case of the Chairman all of the other members of the board) to sell or otherwise dispose of Company securities during a Blackout Period where the person is in severe financial hardship or where there are exceptional circumstances as set out in this policy.

5.8 Severe Financial Hardship or Exceptional Circumstances

The determination of whether a Director, employee or contractor is in severe financial hardship will be made by the Chief Executive Officer or Chief Financial Officer in the case of employees, the Chairman in the case of a Director, and all of the board in the case of the Chairman.

A financial hardship or exceptional circumstances determination can only be made by examining all of the facts and if necessary obtaining independent verification of the facts from banks, accountants or other like institutions.

5.9 Financial Hardship

A Director, employee or contractor may be in severe financial hardship if they have a pressing financial commitment that cannot be satisfied other than by selling the securities of the Company.

In the interests of an expedient and informed determination by the Chief Executive Officer/Chief Financial Officer, Chairman or board of Directors, any application for an exemption allowing the sale of Company securities during a Blackout Period based on financial hardship must be made in writing, be accompanied by a statutory declaration stating all of the facts and be accompanied by copies of relevant supporting documentation, including contact details of the persons accountant, bank and other such independent institutions.

Any exemption, if issued, will be in writing and shall contain a specified time period during which the sale of securities can be made.

5.10 Exceptional Circumstances

Exceptional circumstances may apply to the disposal of Company securities by a Director, employee or contractor if the person is required by a court order, a court enforceable undertaking for example in a bona fide family settlement, to transfer or sell securities of the Company or there is some other overriding legal or regulatory requirement to do so.

Any application for an exemption allowing the sale of Company securities during a Blackout Period based on exceptional circumstances must be made in writing and be accompanied by relevant court and/or supporting legal documentation.

Any exemption, if issued, will be in writing and shall contain a specified time period during which the sale of securities can be made.

6. NSX NOTIFICATION FOR DIRECTORS

The NSX Listing Rules require the Company to notify the NSX within 5 business days after any dealing in securities of the Company (either personally or through an Associate) which results in a change in the relevant interests of a Director in the securities of the Company. The Company has made arrangements with each Director to ensure that the Director promptly discloses to the Company Secretary all the information required by the NSX. As mentioned in subsection 5.1 above, notification by the Company to NSX shall not release the Director in question from the personal duty, inter alia, to notify Oslo Børs of any trading in Company Securities, see section 7 below.

7. ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS FOR PRIMARY INSIDERS UNDER NORWEGIAN LAW

7.1 Primary Insiders

Pursuant to the Norwegian Securities Trading Act, "Primary Insider" shall be understood as:

1. Members of the Board of Directors of the Company
2. Deputy members of the Board of Directors of the Company
3. Directors appointed by the employees or the Corporate Assembly of the Company
4. The Company's auditor
5. Observers to the Board of Directors of the Company
6. Secretary to the Board of Directors of the Company

7. Senior management of the Company
8. Senior management and board members of a subsidiary of the Company who can normally be expected to have access to inside information

The Board of Directors of the Company will continuously evaluate who shall be considered Primary Insiders of the Company.

The Continuous Disclosure Officer will keep a list of Primary Insiders in the Company to be regularly updated and submitted to Oslo Børs. The notification to Oslo Børs shall state the names, personal identity numbers or similar identification numbers, addresses, offices or positions in the Company of the Primary Insiders.

Each Primary Insider in the Company will receive a written notification from the Continuous Disclosure Officer that he is considered a Primary Insider in the Company.

7.2 Duty to Investigate

Pursuant to the Norwegian Securities Trading Act, Primary Insiders shall, prior to trading or inciting others to trade in Company securities, properly investigate whether there exists any inside information concerning the securities of the Company.

What constitutes a proper investigation shall be assessed on a case by case basis. Primary Insiders are generally expected to keep themselves actively informed about that part of the Company's business that is relevant to their position in the Company. Depending on the circumstances a Primary Insider may be expected to make inquiries of persons it assumes are better informed than the Primary Insider itself.

In addition to the abovementioned, a Primary Insider in the Company shall comply with the following requirements:

- Read communications and check whether there are any unopened or uncollected communications addressed to the Primary Insider, including mail, faxes, e-mails etc.
- Within reasonable time the Primary Insider shall inform itself about the business in which it will participate.
- If the Primary Insider has reason to believe that information relating to business processes in which it is involved will become inside information, the Primary Insider shall ask the relevant persons about the status of the information.
- Relevant persons shall be asked whether they are aware of the existence of inside information.

7.3 Notification to Oslo Børs

Primary Insiders shall notify Oslo Børs of any trading in Company securities. The notification shall be sent immediately to Oslo Børs after the trading has occurred, and in any event no later than prior to the start of the trading day following the transaction. The obligation to submit notice applies also to convertible loans and trades in warrants, options and equivalent rights connected to the securities.

The trading is deemed to have been executed at the time of entry into a binding agreement. A Primary Insider may not wait until it receives the contract note from the stockbroker before sending the notice. The Primary Insider must therefore keep itself informed of the status of trading orders in order to comply with the notification requirement.

The Company may assist the Primary Insider in preparing and sending the notification to Oslo Børs if the Primary Insider should require assistance.

The Company shall receive a copy of any notifications a Primary Insider sends Oslo Børs that does not concern trades by its close associates.

7.4 Trading by Close Associates and List of Close Associates

Primary Insiders shall notify Oslo Børs about trading by its close associates, as well as the trading of relatives with whom the Primary Insider has shared a common household for at least one year at the time of the notifiable transaction, in securities of the Company. Close associates are:

1. the spouse or a person with whom the Primary Insider lives in a relationship akin to marriage.
2. the under-age children, and under-age children of a person as mentioned in subsection 1 with whom the Primary Insider lives.
3. any company in which the Primary Insider or a person as mentioned in 1 or 2 above has control. A controlling influence is deemed to exist if the relevant person or persons control more than 50% of the votes in the company.

Primary Insiders are under an obligation to keep records of the from time to time close associates in the meaning referred to above. Primary Insiders shall submit to the Continuous Disclosure Officer a list of any persons and companies as described above which hold Company securities. The list shall without unreasonable delay be updated whenever changes occur, and shall immediately thereafter be submitted to the Continuous Disclosure Officer. The Company will assist with filing the overview to the Norwegian Financial Supervisory Authority and Oslo Børs, respectively, however it is the personal responsibility of a Primary Insider to ensure that this has been submitted. When preparing the list, Appendix One hereto shall be used. Upon receipt of the list, the Continuous Disclosure Officer will register the information in the web-based insider registers of Oslo Børs (Insider Registers), in accordance with the instructions settled by Oslo Børs.

7.5 The Contents of the Notification

The notification regarding the Primary Insider's own or its close associates' trading shall state:

1. Name of the person concerned.
2. Reason for the notification.
3. Name of the issuer.
4. Description of the security.
5. Transaction type.
6. Time and marketplace for the transaction.
7. Transaction price and volume.
8. Holding after the transaction.

The reason for the notification means the circumstances which make the person concerned a Primary Insider (position, member of the board etc.) and if it is the Primary Insider or its close associates which made the trade. If the notice applies to transactions effectuated by a close associate of the Primary Insider, it need not specify the identity of the close associate concerned.

Completion and submission of the form enclosed as Appendix Two satisfies the requirements for notification of sale/purchase of shares and options.
